REPORT OF VALUE ADDED PROGRAM (VAP)OBJECTIVES OF VAP CLASSES:

- To help students understand their strengths, weaknesses, values, and interests. Self-awareness is crucial for making informed career choices and personal development.
- To improve verbal and written communication skills. Effective communication is vital in the business world, whether it's in meetings, presentations, or written reports.
- To develop the ability to build positive relationships with colleagues, clients, and superiors. This includes skills like active listening, empathy, and conflict resolution.
- To provide opportunities for students to develop leadership qualities. This includes decision-making, problem-solving, and the ability to motivate and guide a team.
- To teach effective time management techniques to help students balance their academic and personal responsibilities, which will serve them well in their future careers.
- To encourage adaptability and the ability to thrive in an ever-changing business environment. This involves embracing change, learning new skills, and staying updated on industry trends.
- To foster analytical and critical thinking abilities. These skills are essential for tackling complex business problems and making informed decisions.
- To provide a basic understanding of financial concepts, including budgeting, investing, and managing personal finances.
- To instil a sense of professionalism in students, including proper dress code, etiquette, and ethics in the workplace.
- To boost self-confidence and assertiveness, which are valuable traits in the business world.
- To train students in effective presentation techniques, as this is often required in academic and professional settings.
- To assist students in creating impressive resumes and preparing for job interviews.
- To encourage entrepreneurial thinking and creativity, inspiring students to explore entrepreneurial opportunities.
- To promote an understanding of cultural diversity and its importance in the global business landscape.
- To equip students with strategies to manage stress and maintain mental well-being in high-pressure environments.
- To enhance students' digital skills, including proficiency in using software and technology commonly used in the business world.
- To help students set clear and achievable personal and career goals.
- To cultivate self-motivation and a growth mind-set to inspire continuous learning and improvement.
- To encourage students to participate in community service and socially responsible initiatives, fostering a sense of social responsibility.

OUTCOMES OF VALUE-ADDED PROGRAMS:

- Skill Enhancement: Participants may acquire new skills or improve existing ones relevant to their field of study or profession. These skills can enhance their employability or performance in their current roles.
- Increased Knowledge: Value-added programs often provide participants with additional knowledge in a particular subject area. This knowledge can be applied in various contexts, such as work, research, or personal development.
- Professional Development: Many value-added programs are designed to enhance participants' professional growth. This may include certifications, workshops, or seminars that can lead to career advancement opportunities.
- Networking Opportunities: Participants may have the chance to connect with peers, industry experts, and potential mentors, which can be valuable for building professional relationships and opportunities.
- Improved Confidence: Engaging in value-added programs can boost participants' self-confidence by validating their skills and knowledge, leading to increased self-esteem and motivation.
- Career Advancement: For those in the workforce, value-added programs can lead to career advancement or job promotions by providing the skills and qualifications needed for higher-level positions.
- Personal Growth: Value-added programs may also contribute to personal growth and development, fostering a sense of fulfilment and achievement.
- Research and Innovation: In academic or research-based value-added programs, participants may contribute to new discoveries or innovations in their respective fields.
- Community Engagement: Some value-added programs have a community service or social impact component, allowing participants to give back to their communities or address societal challenges.
- Enhanced Problem-Solving: Participants may develop better problem-solving and critical thinking skills, which can be applied to various aspects of their lives.

The specific outcomes of a value-added program will depend on its nature, objectives, and the individual goals of the participants. It's important to consider the program's intended outcomes when deciding to participate, as they can have a significant impact on personal and professional development.

REPORT OF MENTORSHIPOBJECTIVES OF MENTORSHIP:

Mentors can help mentees navigate the academic challenges of college, offering guidance on course selection, study techniques, time management, and resources available on campus.

- Mentors can assist with personal growth and development by providing guidance on setting goals, building self-confidence, and making responsible choices.
- Mentors can offer insights into career paths, internships, and job opportunities related to the mentee's field of study. They can also help with resume writing, interview skills, and networking.
- Mentors often have established networks within their field, which they can introduce mentees to, helping them build valuable connections for future career opportunities.
- College can be a stressful and challenging time. Mentors can provide emotional support and a safe space for mentees to discuss their concerns, anxieties, and personal issues.
- Through regular interactions and guidance, mentors can help mentees build self-confidence, which is essential for success in college and beyond.
- Mentors can help mentees develop leadership qualities by involving them in leadership roles, clubs, or organizations on campus.
- For international or first-generation students, mentors can aid in cultural adaptation and social integration, helping them feel more comfortable and included in the college community.
- Mentors can assist mentees in setting both short-term and long-term goals and provide guidance on how to work toward and achieve those goals.
- Mentors can encourage mentees to think critically and solve problems independently, which are important skills for academic and professional success.
- Mentors can help hold mentees accountable for their actions and commitments, helping them stay on track with their academic and personal goals.
- Mentors can contribute to creating an inclusive and diverse college environment by advocating for diversity and helping mentees from underrepresented backgrounds thrive.
- Mentors can share their own experiences, insights, and knowledge to help mentees avoid common pitfalls and make informed decisions.
- Mentorship can provide tailored advice and guidance based on the specific needs and goals of the mentee, which may not be readily available through other resources.
- Mentorship often leads to lasting relationships that extend beyond college, with mentors continuing to provide support and advice even after the mentee graduates.

Overall, mentorship in college aims to facilitate the personal, academic, and professional growth of students, helping them make the most of their college experience and prepare for a successful future.

OUTCOMES OF MENTORSHIP:

Academic Success:

Improved academic performance: Mentored students often experience higher grades and a better understanding of their coursework.

Increased retention rates: Mentorship can help students stay engaged and committed to their studies, reducing dropout rates.

Personal Growth:

Increased self-confidence: Mentors provide guidance and support, helping students build confidence in their abilities.

Enhanced problem-solving skills: Mentees learn how to approach challenges and make informed decisions through mentorship.

Career Development:

Career guidance: Mentors can offer insights into different career paths, industries, and job markets, helping students make informed career choices.

Networking opportunities: Mentors often have extensive professional networks, which can open doors to internships, job opportunities, and valuable connections.

Personal Support:

Emotional support: Mentors can be a source of emotional support, helping students navigate the stresses of college life.

Goal setting: Mentors assist mentees in setting and achieving academic and personal goals.

Skill Development:

Soft skills: Mentorship can aid in the development of important skills like communication, time management, and leadership.

Research and critical thinking skills: Mentored research projects can enhance a student's analytical and problem-solving abilities.

Diverse Perspectives:

Exposure to diverse perspectives: Mentors can introduce students to new ideas, cultures, and viewpoints, broadening their horizons.

Inclusivity and equity: Mentorship can help promote diversity, equity, and inclusion on college campuses by providing support to underrepresented groups.

Leadership Opportunities:

Leadership development: Some mentorship programs offer opportunities for students to become mentors themselves, fostering leadership skills.

SESHADRIPURAM EVENING DEGREE COLLEGE

27, Nagappa Street, Seshadripuram, Bengaluru, Karnataka 560020

Long-term Relationships:

Lifelong connections: Mentor-mentee relationships often extend beyond college, becoming valuable connections in the mentee's professional network.

Higher Graduation Rates:

Improved graduation rates: Mentorship can play a role in ensuring that students complete their degrees on time.

Increased Satisfaction:

Overall college experience: Students who have positive mentorship experiences tend to have higher satisfaction levels with their college journey.

It's important to note that the specific outcomes of mentorship can vary depending on the individual mentor, the mentee, and the structure of the mentorship program. Nevertheless, mentorship in college can provide valuable guidance, support, and opportunities for students, ultimately contributing to their personal and academic success.

REPORT OF REMEDIAL CLASSESOBJECTIVES OF REMEDIAL CLASSES

- To identify and bridge the academic gaps that students may have in fundamental subjects such as mathematics, English, or writing. These classes help students acquire the essential skills and knowledge needed for more advanced coursework.
- To prepare students for college-level work. This includes ensuring that students have the foundational skills necessary to handle the rigors of higher education.
- To boost students' confidence in their abilities. By providing a supportive environment and personalized instruction, these classes help students feel more capable and ready to tackle college-level coursework.
- To improve student retention rates. By providing additional support and resources, institutions aim to help students persist in their studies and complete their degrees.
- Remedial classes typically involve smaller class sizes and more individualized instruction. This personalized approach allows instructors to tailor their teaching methods to the specific needs of each student.
- Remedial classes can help bridge the achievement gaps that exist among students with varying educational backgrounds. They aim to ensure that all students have an equal opportunity to succeed in college.
- Many students drop out of college due to academic difficulties. Remedial classes aim to reduce dropout rates by providing the necessary support to help struggling students catch up and excel.
- Remedial classes can instill a sense of the importance of continuous learning. By helping students overcome challenges early in their college careers, they may be more likely to develop a commitment to ongoing education and skill development.
- In some cases, remedial classes serve as prerequisites for advanced courses. Students must demonstrate proficiency in the remedial subjects before moving on to more specialized or challenging coursework.
- Remedial classes often involve ongoing assessment and progress monitoring to track students' development. This allows instructors and institutions to make adjustments as needed to better support students' success.

Overall, the objectives of remedial classes in college are to provide students with the necessary foundation and support to thrive academically, persist in their studies, and ultimately graduate with the skills and knowledge needed for future success.

Remedial classes in college are typically designed to help students who may not have met the required academic standards in certain subjects or skills. These classes aim to provide additional support and instruction to help students catch up and succeed in their college coursework.

SESHADRIPURAM EVENING DEGREE COLLEGE

27, Nagappa Street, Seshadripuram, Bengaluru, Karnataka 560020

OUTCOMES OF REMEDIAL CLASSES:

Improved Academic Performance: One of the primary goals of remedial classes is to improve students' academic performance in the targeted subject areas. Students who actively engage in these classes and complete their assignments may see significant improvements in their grades and understanding of the material.

Increased Confidence: Remedial classes can boost students' confidence in their academic abilities. As they make progress and see their skills improve, they often become more self-assured in their ability to tackle college-level coursework.

Higher Graduation Rates: Successful completion of remedial classes can increase a student's chances of staying in college and eventually graduating. Without the necessary foundational skills, some students may struggle and drop out, but remediation can help them stay on track.

Closing Skill Gaps: Remedial classes are designed to address specific skill gaps or deficiencies in subjects like math, English, or writing. Successful completion of these classes can bridge those gaps, enabling students to perform better in their regular college courses.

Improved College Readiness: Remedial classes aim to make students college-ready by providing the essential knowledge and skills they need for success. Students who complete these classes are more likely to excel in subsequent college courses.

Shorter Time to Degree: Although remedial classes may initially extend a student's time in college, they can ultimately lead to a shorter overall time to degree completion. By addressing skill gaps early, students may avoid the need to retake courses or spend extra time catching up on foundational material later in their college careers.

Enhanced Learning Strategies: Remedial classes often include instruction on effective study habits and learning strategies. Students who apply these strategies may find that they can apply them to other college courses, leading to better overall academic performance.

Improved Graduation Rates for Underrepresented Groups: Remedial classes can be particularly beneficial for underrepresented minority students or those from disadvantaged backgrounds. These programs can help close achievement gaps and increase the diversity of college graduates.

It's important to note that the effectiveness of remedial classes can vary from one institution to another, and individual student outcomes depend on their dedication, willingness to participate, and the quality of the remedial program. Some students may still face challenges even after completing remedial classes, but these classes provide a valuable opportunity for support and improvement. Institutions often assess the effectiveness of their remedial programs to make necessary adjustments and improvements over time.

27, Nagappa Street, Seshadripuram, Bengaluru, Karnataka 560020

REPORT OF SPECIAL CLASSOBJECTIVES OF SPECIAL CLASS:

- To provide students with a deep and comprehensive understanding of the subject matter. This often involves exploring complex concepts, theories, and ideas in greater detail than in introductory courses.
- To develop critical thinking skills. Students are expected to analyse, evaluate, and critique information, arguments, and theories within the field of study.
- To engage in independent research. This may involve conducting experiments, gathering data, or exploring primary source materials to contribute to the body of knowledge in the field.
- Students are challenged with complex problems and real-world scenarios that require advanced problem-solving skills. This can help them apply theoretical knowledge to practical situations.
- To communicate their ideas effectively, both in writing and verbally. This includes presenting research findings, participating in discussions, and producing high-quality written work.
- To read and interpret complex texts, research papers, and academic literature. They learn how to extract key information, identify arguments, and critically engage with the material.
- To take initiative in their studies, set goals, and manage their time effectively.
- Advanced courses may allow students to specialize in a particular subfield or topic within their major or discipline. This specialization can prepare them for more advanced work or careers in that specific area.
- For students considering graduate school or a career in research, advanced courses provide a strong foundation and the necessary skills to excel in these pursuits.
- To foster intellectual growth and a lifelong love of learning. They encourage students to ask questions, seek answers, and engage deeply with their chosen field of study.
- To make connections between their discipline and other fields, fostering a broader perspective and interdisciplinary thinking.
- To consider ethical issues within their field of study and to develop professional skills and behaviours that are relevant to their chosen career paths.

It's important to note that the objectives of an advanced learners class can vary widely depending on the academic institution, the specific course, and the discipline in question. These objectives are meant to provide a general framework for understanding the goals of advanced-level courses in college.

SESHADRIPURAM EVENING DEGREE COLLEGE

27, Nagappa Street, Seshadripuram, Bengaluru, Karnataka 560020

OUTCOMES OF SPECIAL CLASS:

Deep Understanding: Advanced learners can expect to gain a deeper and more nuanced understanding of the subject matter. They may explore complex concepts, theories, and ideas that go beyond the basics covered in introductory courses.

Critical Thinking: Advanced classes often focus on developing critical thinking skills. Students are encouraged to analyse, evaluate, and synthesize information, leading to a more sophisticated and critical approach to problem-solving.

Research Skills: Advanced learners may engage in more extensive research projects, honing their research and information literacy skills. They may have the opportunity to contribute to ongoing research in their field.

Advanced Knowledge: These classes typically cover advanced topics, theories, and methods within a particular discipline. Students can expect to acquire a broader and more specialized knowledge base.

Advanced Skills: Depending on the subject, students may develop advanced skills relevant to their field of study. For example, in a computer science class, they might become proficient in a particular programming language or technology.

Independent Learning: Advanced classes often require students to take more responsibility for their own learning. They may have more freedom to choose research topics or explore areas of interest, promoting independent learning.

Communication Skills: Students are likely to enhance their communication skills, both written and oral. They may be required to present their findings, write research papers, or engage in class discussions at a higher level.

Networking: Advanced learners may have opportunities to connect with professors and fellow students who share their interests. This can be valuable for building professional relationships and gaining insights into potential career paths.

Preparation for Graduate Studies or Careers: For many advanced learners, these classes serve as a stepping stone to graduate studies or careers in their chosen field. The knowledge and skills acquired in advanced classes can be instrumental in achieving success in these pursuits.

Personal Growth: Beyond academic and career-related outcomes, advanced classes can contribute to personal growth. They can foster a sense of curiosity, intellectual curiosity, and a lifelong love of learning.

It's important to note that the specific outcomes can vary widely depending on the college, the department or program, and the individual student's goals and efforts. Some students may excel academically, while others may focus on practical applications of their knowledge in their future careers. Overall, advanced learners' classes are designed to challenge and enrich students' educational experiences, preparing them for more advanced academic and professional pursuits.

REPORT OF PERSONAL COUNSELLINGOBJECTIVES OF PERSONAL COUNSELLING:

- To provide a safe and confidential space for students to express their emotions, feelings, and concerns. Counsellors offer empathetic listening and emotional support to help students cope with stress, anxiety, depression, and other emotional challenges.
- To assist students in developing effective stress management techniques and coping strategies to deal with academic pressures, personal issues, and life transitions.
- To help students address academic difficulties, such as time management, study skills, test anxiety, and procrastination, to enhance their academic performance and achieve their educational goals.
- To encourage self-reflection and self-awareness, enabling students to explore their values, beliefs, goals, and identity. This self-exploration can lead to personal growth and a better understanding of oneself.
- To support students in making informed decisions related to academic majors, career paths, and life choices by discussing their interests, strengths, and values.
- To teach conflict resolution and communication skills to help students address interpersonal conflicts with peers, faculty, or family members.
- To provide immediate support and intervention in crisis situations, such as suicidal ideation, severe emotional distress, or traumatic events, to ensure students' safety and well-being.
- To assist students in building resilience and adapting to life transitions, such as transitioning to college, dealing with loss or grief, or adjusting to new environments.
- To promote self-care practices and well-being strategies, encouraging students to prioritize their mental and emotional health.
- To assess students' needs and, when necessary, refer them to specialized services, such as psychiatric care, substance abuse treatment, or disability services, to ensure they receive appropriate support.
- To maintain strict confidentiality to create a trusting and non-judgmental environment where students feel comfortable discussing sensitive issues.
- To recognize and respect cultural, racial, and individual differences, ensuring that counselling services are inclusive and sensitive to diverse backgrounds and experiences.
- To organise Offer workshops, seminars, and educational programs on mental health, stress management, and wellness to proactively address mental health concerns and promote mental health awareness on campus.

Personal counselling in college is essential for promoting the overall well-being and academic success of students, helping them navigate the challenges they may encounter during their college years and beyond. These objectives aim to create a supportive and conducive environment for personal growth and development.

SESHADRIPURAM EVENING DEGREE COLLEGE

27, Nagappa Street, Seshadripuram, Bengaluru, Karnataka 560020

OUTCOMES OF PERSONAL COUNSELING:

Improved Mental Health: One of the primary goals of personal counseling in college is to address and alleviate mental health issues such as anxiety, depression, stress, and loneliness. Successful counseling can lead to improved emotional well-being and a better ability to manage these issues.

Enhanced Coping Skills: Counseling can help students develop effective coping strategies for dealing with academic, personal, and social challenges. This can lead to increased resilience and a better ability to handle stressors.

Increased Self-Awareness: Through counseling, students can gain a deeper understanding of themselves, their values, and their motivations. This self-awareness can lead to personal growth and a clearer sense of purpose.

Improved Interpersonal Skills: College counseling often involves addressing issues related to relationships, communication, and conflict resolution. Improved interpersonal skills can lead to healthier and more satisfying relationships with peers, professors, and family members.

Academic Success: Addressing mental health concerns and improving coping skills can positively impact a student's academic performance. Students may experience better concentration, time management, and study habits, leading to improved grades and overall academic success.

Goal Achievement: Personal counselling can help students set and work toward their personal and academic goals. Whether it's achieving a certain GPA, overcoming procrastination, or clarifying career aspirations, counselling can provide guidance and support in reaching these goals.

Increased Self-Esteem and Confidence: As students work through personal issues and build self-awareness, they often experience a boost in self-esteem and self-confidence. This can lead to a more positive self-image and a greater willingness to take on new challenges.

Stress Reduction: Learning stress management techniques and developing a better understanding of the sources of stress can lead to a reduction in stress levels, contributing to overall well-being.

Emotional Regulation: Counselling can help students develop better emotional regulation skills, which can be beneficial for managing strong emotions and making sound decisions.

Lifelong Coping Skills: The skills and insights gained through personal counseling can serve students well beyond their college years. They can become valuable tools for navigating life's challenges in the future.

It's important to note that the outcomes of personal counseling can vary from person to person, and the effectiveness of counseling may depend on factors such as the student's willingness to engage in the process, the skills of the counsellor, and the nature of the issues being addressed. Additionally, some individuals may require ongoing or specialized support beyond college counseling services.

The session started with an introduction to Enfold Trust, which closely works with UNICEF, helping the family of the sexually harassed victim navigate the criminal justice system during the investigation and trial. Article 21 of Indian Constitution: right to live with dignity, free from exploitation. The Government secures to the workers a life of basic human dignity in compliance with the directive principles of the state policy. The Sexual Harassment of Women at workplace (prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013. Suja Sukumaran further talked regarding the awareness of POSH among public.

The Session at the end was dealt with the question ‘What is sexual harassment?’, and referred any other unwelcome physical, verbal or non-verbal conduct of sexual nature. She further talked about personal space, around a person, that one has to maintain and that others should respect. Further took-up few questions from the audience and responded to them aptly and concluded the session.

Outcome:

- Around 100 students attended the session.
- Students understood various behaviours which can be subjected to as sexual harassment.
- Students got their doubts clarified during the Q&A session.
- Beneficiaries got to know about the legal rights.

Report on “Awareness on the usage of cloth pads and menstrual cup”

Date: 16/07/2022

Organizing Body: Seva Spandana & Chethana (Women Empowerment Cell)

Objective:

To create awareness among the girls about the usage of cloth pads and menstrual cup.

To prevent the usage of harmful sanitary napkins.

Description:

On 16th July 2022, An IQAC initiative – Seva Spandana & Chethana (Women Empowerment Cell), in association with Lions Club of Bangalore Centennial Services & Leo Club Jointly Organized a Workshop on “Awareness on the usage of cloth pads and menstrual cup”. This programme was organized under the guidance of Prof. N.S. Satish, Principal of the College. 58 girls students of the college participated in the event enthusiastically.

The Resource person for the workshop was Smt. Jeevitha Mahendra, Founder – Milestone, POSH Trainer, Life Coach. She addressed the students to not to use sanitary napkins which can adversely effect on our body. Girls often use sanitary napkins that are manufactured using harmful chemicals which affects their physical health in the long run.

The Guest of Honour, Lion Dakshayini S., Director LCBCS, talked about the significance of menstrual hygiene and societal taboo about menstrual cycle.

The workshop was presided by Dr. Anulekha Kurdekar, MBBS, Fellowship in Clinical Cardiology. She acquainted the girls students about hygiene, precautionary measures to be taken during menses and maintenance of menstrual cup.

The students were allowed to interact with the resource person and clarified their doubts.

Prof. N. S. Satish, Principal, Seshadripuram Evening Degree College graced the occasion. Smt. Nagasudha. R., Co-ordinator IQAC, Dr. Geetha. V., Convenor - Seva Spandana, Smt. Anusha S. Nadiger, Convenor - Chethana, all the teaching and non-teaching ladies staff witnessed the successful event.

Ms. Vandana S., 1st B.Com student sang invocation song, Ms. Spandana S., 2nd B.Com student welcomed and introduced all the dignitaries to the program, Ms. Deepika B. S., 2nd B.Com student compeered the program, Ms. Janaki, 2nd B.Com student rendered vote of thanks.
